Start Up Course Syllabus

August 2020

General Information

Description
This is a 5-week startup course to assist early-stage companies in perfecting their pitch to investors. Topics will focus on elements critical to a pitch deck from framing the value proposition, to building the target product profile, to understanding the market, to building a strong team. In the last class, companies will present pitches to both members of the epilepsy community and investors.

Expectations and Goals
The goal of the course is to help accelerate needed epilepsy products onto the marketplace by providing mentorship in the business elements of getting a company ready for investment. Our expectation is that each attendee actively engages with the course to receive maximal benefit. This means doing the pre-work assignments and actively participating in the class discussion.

Because we are discussing potential sensitive material regarding product development, we are requesting that all participants (including instructors, guest speakers and class attendees) sign a non-disclosure agreement, to ensure that everything shared in the course is kept confidential.

Course Materials

Required Materials
Prior to each session, there will be suggested reading materials located on the Google Drive.

Additional Tools
As a roadmap for your company, we have created a matrix checklist tool of items that need to be completed depending on where you are in stages of financing. We have built our course off this rubric and will be referring to it throughout.

We have also found a great template example for a pitch deck developed by First Round Capital. We have structured our course to assist with filling out the needed components of this pitch deck. Please refer to this deck as you prepare for the final class where you are presenting your product to actual investors in the space.
